Trane Recalls CleanEffects™ and American Standard AccuClean™ Filtration Systems Due to Fire Hazard

Trane announced a voluntary recall of the following products.

AFD210ALFR000A AFD21DALFR000A
 AFD260ALAH000A AFD245ALFR000A

Name of Product: Stand alone CleanEffects™ and AccuClean™ Air Filtration Systems.

The serial and model numbers are located on the inside of the door of the air cleaning unit. Models with other serial numbers, models installed as an integrated part of the air handler or furnace; and models with the “Perfect Fit”™ are not subject to this recall.

Units: Approximately 2,600 in Canada.

Manufacturer/Importer: Trane, a business of American Standard Inc.

Sold by: Trane’s independent dealers sold the CleanEffects™ air cleaner product in Canada from December 13, 2005 through June 14, 2007, on an installed basis. American Standard independent dealers sold the AccuClean™ air cleaner product in Canada from December 13, 2005 through June 14, 2007, on an installed basis.

Hazard: Electrical arcing inside the collection cells can cause the collection cell material to overheat or ignite posing a fire hazard.

Manufactured in: United States.

Incidents/Injuries: There have been no reported incidents in Canada. In the United States, Trane has received twelve reports of overheating and property damage limited to the HVAC equipment. No injuries have been reported.

Remedy: Consumers with an air handler unit should stop using the recalled systems immediately. To turn off the system, push and hold the round power button on the front of the air cleaner door for about three seconds until the LED panel illuminates. Release the power button. The LED panel will remain lit for about fifteen seconds and then go out. Affected consumers will be notified directly about obtaining a replacement collection cell at no cost.

Description/Models: The recall involves whole-house air filtration units that were installed with consumers’ air handlers or furnaces. They were sold as the Trane CleanEffects™ and American Standard AccuClean™ systems. The recall involves air filtration systems with serial numbers prior to 7222 and including:
