

October 1, 2008

UL Warns of Counterfeit Cordless Drill Chargers

NORTHBROOK, Ill., October 1, 2008 - Underwriters Laboratories (UL) is notifying consumers and retailers that cordless drill chargers under the brand name "Superior" bear counterfeit UL Marks for the United States and Canada. The chargers have not been evaluated for safety by UL and are not eligible to bear the UL Mark.

Name of Product: Superior Charger, Model SH-DC180400

Units: Unknown quantity

Manufacturer: Unknown

Date of Manufacture: Unknown

Identification: On the Product: The unit has a counterfeit UL label with the following information:

SUPERIOR CHARGER Model No. SH-DC180400 Serial No. XXXXXX	cULus LISTED 19KW
IN: 120v AC, 60Hz OUT: 18v DC, 400mA

Where Sold: Known to have been sold with Superior 18-volt cordless drills at <http://www.superiorairco.com>.

What Should You Do: UL recommends that consumers stop using the products immediately and return it the place of purchase.

