

March 27th, 2009

UL warns of appliance controls with counterfeit UL Mark

Northbrook, Ill., USA, March 26, 2009 -- Underwriters Laboratories (UL) is notifying manufacturers that appliance controls, identified below, bear counterfeit UL Recognition Marks for the United States and Canada. These appliance controls have not been evaluated for safety by UL and are not eligible to bear the UL Mark.

These controls have been sold with counterfeit Portable Cabinet Light Systems. See UL's Public Notice released March 26, 2009, for details concerning these portable cabinet light systems.

Name of product: Appliance controls, Model: TD1

Number of units: Unknown

Manufacturer: Unknown

Identification of counterfeit product: On the Product: The units have a label with a counterfeit UL Recognition Mark and the following information:

Sold at: Unknown

What should you do: UL recommends manufacturers stop purchasing and using the product immediately and return it to the place of purchase.

Manufacturers of UL certified products that have used this counterfeit device are requested to contact UL at <http://www.ul.com/global/eng/pages/offerings/perspectives/consumer/fieldreport/>

Photo of the Product:

